Service	iThenticate	Turnitin Feedback Studio (formerly just Turnitin)
URL	http://www.ithenticate.com/	https://www.turnitin.com/
Who are the users?	Editors, faculty, and researchers	Faculty and students in a classroom setting/online
What does it scan against?	Millions of journal articles, conference proceedings, books; databases such as PubMed/MEDLINE, EBSCOHost, ProQuest; more than 10 million web pages/day	929 million archived student papers; 67 billion web pages; millions of journal articles and subscription content sources; content with Crossref
What does user do?	Click on the 'Upload a file' link; choose file and upload, or 'cut and paste' text to be analyzed	Faculty use access code to create a class ID; students use class ID to create account and upload documents; users can also 'cut and paste' text to be analyzed
How are results displayed?	Identifies material in database that matches text (highlighted). User receives a Similarity Report with a % of similarity between the submission and content in the database. Since the highlighted text includes properly quoted and cited text (not necessarily plagiarized), it is extremely important to review all sections and verify that it has been properly referenced or summarized. This can help identify instances of unintentional plagiarism	Students and faculty receive a % similarity score. Faculty can view all similarity reports in the assignment 'inbox' page and insert feedback for students; multiple drafts can be uploaded for review. Be aware that the similarity index could be high since it is comparing with previous submission drafts from the same student. Need to review all highlighted text carefully as it includes properly quoted and cited text
Added Features	Organizational subscriptions can include a private, custom database for document-to-document comparison	Integrates with several learning management systems Instructors can leave voice and text comments in various forms
Privacy	Submissions are not added to database and are kept private for the user	Submissions are added to database by default (can be changed by faculty member)
Comments	- Partnership with ProQuest (for thesis and dissertations) - Multiple web resources to assist authors and editors including blogs, papers and reports on plagiarism - Can share documents and collaborate in groups	- Partnership with Gradescope (automates grading of existing or new assignments) - Turnitin has been 'reimagined for the modern classroom' and is now named 'Turnitin Feedback Studio' - Many resources to assist faculty, including but not limited to, standardized email messages to faculty / students, tutorials, and videos
